February.... Cold days and new courses.

Much of your out-of-class time is probably spent reading or writing, or both.

Here are some tips to read smarter and faster.

- ☐ Before you begin, skim the text to get an idea of the content. How is it structured? Are there headings and subheadings? Any bold print?
- ☐ Read the first and last paragraphs of the assigned reading. This prepares you to begin your reading with some knowledge of the content, thus you will understand the material better.
- ☐ On the first full reading, highlight or make notes of passages or make notes that you believe are important. Write notes in the margins of your text or notebook. Physically interact with the text. The notes that you write are excellent sources for questions to ask in class and for paper topics.
- ☐ Do not read the text aloud or say the words to yourself in your head. This dramatically reduces your speed and your comprehension level.
- ☐ Do not stop and look up the meaning of every word or concept. This slows your pace and concentration significantly. Chances are if you continue reading you will be able to discern the meaning within the context of the text.
- ☐ Immediately after the first reading, look back at your highlighting and marginal comments. Take a few minutes to think about what the author was saying.
- ☐ In a journal, notebook or note-taking page on your computer, write a short summary of the reading and your reactions to it. Doing this will help you analyze what you've just read and remember it better.

2019 BCS Consultation Artist in Resident Shares Exhibit

The 2019 BCS Consultation Artist in Residence is Alison Stabler, a second-year Master of Divinity Student at Louisville Seminary.

Her exhibit, "Echoes of Alabama" is a collection of photographs and narratives about the history of slavery, Civil Rights, and rural ministry in Alabama. It features the use of hashtags, theological quotes, Scripture, and original poetry to reflect on the reality, past and present that African Americans face in the Deep South - especially how the Black Church fights for the rights of people—all people. There are echoes everywhere ... can you hear them?

ISRAEL & PALESTINE | JANUARY 2020

Join us for an informational session concerning the J-term 2020 trip to Israel and Palestine!

THURSDAY, MARCH 28

12:15 p.m.

SCHLEGEL HALL 120

We will discuss the travel itinerary, course goals, and costs. No deposit is needed until September. Bring your questions!

Travel to the Mediterranean, the Sea of Galilee, Bethlehem, Jericho, and Jerusalem's old city. We'll visit archaeological sites. We'll meet Israeli Jews and Palestinian Christians and Muslims and hear their stories. We'll worship in Arab Christian Churches and an Orthodox Jewish Synagogue. We'll visit mosques. We'll visit sites important to earliest Christians along the Sea of Galilee and in Bethlehem and Jerusalem. We'll worship and reflect over all we see and hear. And we'll take a dip in the Dead Sea!

Travelers will learn about the complex history of the region: the growth of Judaism, Christianity, and Islam side by side, and the impact of religious groups upon the culture. We will contemplate not only the past but the interreligious and intercultural situation today, the sources of conflict, and the strategies by which a wide variety of people seek to live day by day.

The trip, led by Dr. Tyler Mayfield and Prof. Justin Reed, will occur over the course of two weeks (tentatively January 12-26, 2020). The estimated cost is $4,500. Deposit required in September 2019 with the balance due in November 2019. The trip is limited to 22 travelers and open to partners, alums, and seminary friends with students receiving priority. Students enroll in a one-credit Fall course and a two-credit J-term course.

Recycling at LPTS | Ardath Curtis, Sustainability Coordinator

PLEASE RECYCLE THESE ITEMS

LPTS has recycling bins in all of its buildings for everyone to use. Ten student volunteers (if you see them, please say thank-you!) take these bins and put the contents into our mixed recycling drop-off box, which is provided by Rumpke. This drop-off box (which looks like a green dumpster) is located in the corner of the student housing circle. The campus has a second drop-off box at the turnaround behind Nelson for cardboard only.

The above picture shows items to recycle. There is a special blue bin in the Winn Center for you to place your plastic bags. Make sure your cans and bottles are free of excess liquid and food is wiped out of containers. When placing items in bins for recycling, please be mindful that the student volunteers are picking these up, carrying them up and down stairs, through doors, to their cars and then lifting them again to empty in the drop-off box. It's best to spread out the weight among the available bins instead of overflowing one bin.

If a recycling area in need of attendance, please contact contact Ardath (ardath.curtis@my.lpts.edu).

Louisville Seminary's Cultural Diversity
Committee and Crossroads Ministry invite you to

ANTI-RACISM TRAINING

March 8, 2019; 8:30 AM - 4:00 PM
Schlegel Hall

Recognizing that racism goes beyond personal prejudices, Crossroads offers a distinctive power analysis of how racism functions in institutions and offers tools to create anti-racist transformation.

This is a free event for current students, faculty, staff, and administrators! Classes will be cancelled. Register at lpts.edu between 2/11-2/22
Space is limited, so reserve your spot now!
