Course description

To a large extent the construction of gender, the rules and practices of diverse racial and ethnic groups, and the differences shaped by socioeconomic class demonstrate the cultural relativity of family life. In this course we will critique our own internalization of these “rules” and practices and pursue gender and multicultural perspectives that encourage and affirm respect for the diversity in various family systems in an interfaith world. We will explore the ways sexism, racism, and classism function oppressively, limiting possibilities for well-being in family systems and shaping the context for care. Using the lenses of gender, race, and class, we will examine several racial and minority groups in North America according to their patterns in the following areas:

- life cycle issues
- religion and ritual
- marriage norms
- values
- gender rules and roles
- mental illness/dysfunction
- family functions and processes
- attitudes toward seeking help

We will consider the implications of such differences for appropriate interventions and continuing care in pastoral practice and family therapy. We will give particular attention to discerning the oppressive effects of racism, sexism, heterosexism, and classism for our own lives and develop personal and professional strategies for resisting their destructive effects.

Course requirements

RUBRICS and full descriptions of the assignments are in APPENDIX C.

I. Personal experience of difference
In consultation with the class, each class member will participate in some activity outside of class that allows her/him to expand her/his own gendered, ethnic, and/or racial identity through an immediate experience of difference. A summary of this experience must be included in your final integration paper.

II. Preparation and Participation (10%) evaluated by the following criteria:
Preparation for class: complete the Session Evaluation Form. This form requires a 100-200 word reflection/summary of reading and two questions that arise from reading. Session evaluation forms are turned in at the end of each class session. Questions are to be emailed to professors no later than 10:00 a.m. the morning of the class session.

In class: openness to reflect critically on the implications of ideas discussed from readings and presentations; accurate use of material assigned.

In short, students are expected to be in class on time and prepared to discuss assigned readings. A crucial skill needed to resist racial, gender, and class oppression is the ability to initiate and sustain productive dialogue about critical issues.

III. Racial/Cultural Identity Development paper (25%)
DUE 2/26/13 in hardcopy in class

IV. Group presentation, class discussion facilitation (15%)
A crucial skill needed to resist racial, gender, and class oppression is the ability to initiate and sustain productive dialogue about critical issues. To develop this skill, all students will have an opportunity to participate in leading a class discussion.

V. Genogram project (25%)
Be sure to read Hardy & Laszloffy article, pp. 227-237
Write a 10-12 page, double-spaced typed paper that describes your own racial and/or ethnic heritage and notes the effects of socio-economic class and gender rules/roles. DUE April 7 at the beginning of class.

VI. Final integration/reflection paper (25%)
Be sure to incorporate your “personal experience of difference” course component and describe what you learned from it.
DUE during exam week, Thurs, May 16 at 12:00 noon. Submit electronically on CAMS.

APPENDIX B – SEMINARY AND COURSE POLICIES

SEMINARY POLICIES relevant to course participation

For use of Inclusive Language
In accordance with seminary policy (see the Student Handbook), students are to use inclusive language in class discussions and in written and oral communication by using language representative of the whole human community in respect to gender, sexual orientation, ethnicity, age, and physical and intellectual capacities. Direct quotations from theological texts and translations of the Bible do not have to be altered to conform to this policy. In your own writing, however, when referring to God, you are encouraged to use a variety of images and metaphors, reflecting the richness of the Bible’s images for God. For further assistance, see http://www.lpts.edu/Academic_Resources/ASC/avoidinggenderbiasinlanguage.asp.

Academic Honesty
All work turned in to the instructors is expected to be the work of the student whose name appears on the assignment. Any borrowing of the ideas or the words of others must be acknowledged by quotation marks (where appropriate) and by citation of author and source. Use of another’s language or ideas from online resources is included in this policy, and must be attributed to author and source of the work being cited. Failure to do so constitutes plagiarism, and may result in failure of the course. Multiple occurrences of plagiarism may result in dismissal from the Seminary. Students unfamiliar with issues relating to academic honesty can find help from the staff in the Academic Support Center.
For the Seminary policy, see The Code of Student Conduct, 6.11; the Student Handbook, p. 19.

Special Accommodations
Students requiring accommodations for a documented physical or learning disability should be in contact with the Director of the Academic Support Center (kmapes@lpts.edu) during the first two weeks of a semester and should speak with the instructor as soon as possible to arrange appropriate adjustments. Students with environmental or other sensitivities that may affect their learning are also encouraged to speak with the instructor.

Attendance Policy
According to the Seminary catalog, students are expected to attend class meetings regularly. In case of illness or emergency, students are asked to notify the instructor of their planned absence from class, either prior to the session or within 24 hours of the class session. Six or more absences (1/4 of the course) may result in a low or failing grade in the course.

Citation Policy
Copies of these guides are available at the library and in the Academic Support Center. Double-spaced, 12 font, one inch margins are considered standard in this class unless otherwise specified. Grading of all written material will be affected by careless writing. The Academic Support Center provides instruction in all of these matters. Tutors are available to work with you on study habits, reading skills, and writing assignments.

ADDITIONAL COURSE POLICIES

Classroom Discussion
For ours to be an open classroom where freedom and respect are assured regarding one another’s point of view, we need to agree that comments and expressions of belief that may be at variance with those of the instructors, another student, or our own must be respected, heard, and treated fairly. We hope this same attitude prevails in the churches where students serve in ministry and is modeled by our students in their ministry placement settings.

Late papers
Out of fairness to other students, papers turned in after the time and date specified in the syllabus will receive a grade penalty. Schedule of penalties: 1 minute to 24 hours late = 1 letter-grade deduction; 24 to 48 hours late = 2 letter-grade deduction. Papers more than 48 hours late will not be accepted. Grades of incomplete for the course will be permitted only in extreme circumstances, and must be arranged by the date specified by the registrar’s office.

Use of Electronic Devices in Class
Courses in pastoral care and counseling emphasize the practice of attentive listening. This is both a sign of mutual respect and a spiritual discipline essential to the ministry of caring for others. Therefore, the use of laptops in class is discouraged and may be prohibited depending on classroom dynamics. It is assumed that students will not send or read text messages during class. All cell phones should be turned off during class unless waiting for an important call, in which case you should let the professor know ahead of time. Checking of email or social networking sites will be grounds for dismissal from the session and will affect the student’s course participation grade.

I. Assignment: Racial/Cultural Identity Development Paper

Directions: Write a two-page paper describing this aspect of your development utilizing either Sue & Sue’s R/CID model on pp. 295-305 in Chapter 11, which is their synthesis of the earlier, more culturally specific identity models or the White Racial Identity Development (WRID) descriptive model (see Sue & Sue, Chapter 12, pp. 330-335). Include where you would currently locate yourself and why, and briefly discuss catalysts for any movement you have observed between the stages from childhood onward. If you think you’ve always been at the same place, discuss the reasons for that.

II. Assignment: Small Group Presentation

Directions: Participate in the planning of a small group presentation and facilitation of a class discussion on the material assigned for the day as well as from Sue & Sue, Chapters 7-9 in order to sustain productive dialogue about critical issues. Discussion leaders are expected to have read the material carefully and form a plan for how group discussion will be managed. (Consulting McGoldrick, Giordano, and Garcia-Preto’s Ethnicity and Family Therapy, 3rd ed. will enrich preparation considerably). Leaders are encouraged to be creative and to use film clips or role plays to develop a specific pastoral care/counseling situation which requires gender, class, and racial/ethnic analysis related to the focus of that day’s reading assignments. The goals of the presentation and discussion are to help the class reflect theologically and clinically on interlocking forms of oppression and to learn effective gender, class, and racial/ethnic awareness for pastoral practice. To this end, the case presentation should lead the class to:

- define the characteristics of the person/persons seeking care in the situation (such as: vocation, socioeconomic considerations, racial/ethnic identity, gender factors, family constellations, etc.);
- identify a caregiver or caregiver team and describe who they are with regard to gender, race/ethnicity, family constellation, socioeconomic class history, etc.;
- create an effective strategy for pastoral care/counseling directly related to the case, including a gender, race/ethnicity, and class analysis;
- evaluate the strategy by identifying the areas where gender, class, race/ethnicity conflicts and complementarity might occur given the persons seeking care and the person(s) offering care. Identify larger contextual issues of justice, systems of care, etc. that caregivers might miss given their particular gender, race/ethnic, class identities.

Note: the small group is also responsible for the class opening devotion

III. Assignment: Genogram

Directions: Write a 10-12 page, double-spaced typed paper that describes your own racial and/or ethnic heritage and notes the effects of socio-economic class and gender rules/roles.

- Construct a four-generation genogram inclusive of your own generation. Use your memory, family records, family interviews, or records available through various genealogical services to gain as much information as possible about your four-generation heritage.
- Identify in each generation the racial and/or ethnic heritage of each person. Include religious, national, regional and any other significant determinants to family and personal identity. Describe family myths/stories about the meaning of racial/ethnic heritage to the family. Outline racial/ethnic and cultural impacts of marriages within the family and any stories in the family regarding these. Identify ways the ethnic/racial heritage(s) of your family is reflected in its values and practices. (This involves more than naming the heritage; i.e., what difference does it make in family processes and values?)
- Incorporate material from at least one relevant chapter on your ethnic identity from McGoldrick, Monica, Joe Giordano, and Nydia Garcia-Preto, eds. Ethnicity and Family Therapy, 3rd ed. New York: The Guilford Press, 2005. (on library reserve)
- Describe any patterns of migration, immigration, or forced relocation, and the impacts these have had on family functioning or family identity.
- Describe the influence of socioeconomic class factors, noting changes over time and how these factors were present in marriages and related family rules and values (such as education, employment, definitions of success, etc.).
- Describe family patterns of male-female interactions, roles, and expectations. Identify exceptions to these and the emotional impact upon the family. Be sure to describe dominant myths about the family’s perceptions about gender rules/roles.
- Provide a summary briefly outlining your perception of how the above issues impact the eight areas noted in the course description (see page 1 of syllabus)

V. Assignment: Final Integration Paper

Directions: Write a 3-4 page paper reflecting on your personal journey during the course in light of your initial racial/cultural identity development status, gender rule/role, and socioeconomic class awareness. Return to the R/CID and WRID development models in Sue & Sue to reflect on your initial status regarding the above 3 facets of your social identity and ways this status has changed or deepened this semester. Be sure to incorporate your “personal experience of difference” course component and describe what you learned from it. This paper should also include your personal and professional strategies for resisting racial, gender, and class oppression. (See Sue & Sue, Chapter 12, pp. 335-338 for sample suggestions.)
