Course Description:
This course examines the thought of John Calvin in the context of his life and work on behalf of the movements for reform of the church in sixteenth-century Europe. We will read from Calvin's Institutes and selected other writings in order to grasp the main outlines and principal themes of his theology, to assess his influence upon the debates of his time, and to interpret his continuing theological legacy.

Students taking this course should have completed Introduction to Theology and Ethics (ITE) and at least one semester of the History of Christian Experience (exceptions granted at instructor’s discretion).

Goals and Objectives:
The goal of the course is to help students develop their capacity for faithful and coherent theological expression in pastoral practice. Students will

- gain a basic understanding of the theology of Calvin in the context of his times and in relation to theological traditions and debates that preceded and followed his lifetime,
- sharpen their skills of theological interpretation through the close reading and discussion of primary sources, orally and in writing,
- develop an ability to make responsible and relevant use of historic theological writing,
- clarify their own theological and ethical positions.

Requirements:

1. Course engagement: Thorough preparation for class, thoughtfully active participation in discussion, and appropriate note-taking together constitute a basic expectation and requirement of the course. Attendance is mandatory. Students will submit a one-paragraph self-assessment of their course engagement, including a grade, in the conclusion of their dialogical exercise/theological journal (see 4, below). The following is a rough guide to letter grade assignment: A = completed 95-100% of the reading prior to class discussion, with critical reflection, and engaged thoughtfully and with respect for others in class exchanges; B = completed 85% …; C = completed 75% … Grades should be lowered appropriately for unexcused absences, tardiness, leaving class early, in-class texting or other forms of non-participation. The instructor reserves the right to adjust the reported grade when necessary. (about 15%)

2. Outlines: As an aid to processing reading, students should prepare daily outlines of the assigned reading from the Institutes and submit them to the instructor’s email inbox prior to the class session on which the reading is to be discussed (beginning Feb. 19). Thus, by the end of the semester, the student should have a complete outline of the work for ready reference. No late submissions please. (about 15%)

3. Oral conversation: A one-hour face-to-face conference with the instructor will be scheduled during the final two weeks of class. Student preparation for the conversation will include reading a specialized-scholarly book on Calvin’s theology and/or his contributions in his historical setting (see text options below*) as well as reviewing your class notes, reading notes, and outlines. This is an opportunity for checking in regarding your developing understanding as well as reporting on and processing areas of challenge or difficulty, and it also supplies an opportunity for communicating initial assessments of your course work prior to the final wrap-up of the course. (about 35%)
Select Books on Calvin and Calvin's Theology

4. A dialogical exercise: How My Engagement with Calvin Changed/Deepened/Expanded/Complicated/Clarified My Theological Thinking. Keep a theological “journal” throughout the semester to document your critical and contextual engagement with Calvin’s theology, your conversations with classmates and others about theological issues raised in the course, and your reflections on your own developing theological and ethical understanding. In order to facilitate this, students are (1) asked to identify a theological problem, issue, or area of special concern or interest within the first two weeks of the semester and to communicate this in writing to the instructor, so as to help focus their dialogical processing; and they are (2) strongly encouraged, if possible, to form small groups for occasional theological conversations outside of class time. The shape, style, content, length, and format of this project is to be determined by you, as it is an exercise intended for your own growth and development. So use freedom and creativity here in a way that serves that intention. Your journals and your oral reflection on them will be the basis for a concluding conversation (“final exam”) held May 16. Completed journals are due May 14. (about 35%)

All required written work should be submitted, electronically, to the instructor’s email inbox.

N.B. In order to pass the course, students must complete and submit all assigned work.

Academic Honesty:

All work turned in to the instructor is expected to be the work of the student whose name appears on the assignment. Any borrowing of the ideas or the words of others must be acknowledged by quotation marks (where appropriate) and by citation of author and source. Use of another’s language or ideas from online resources is included in this policy, and must be attributed to author and source of the work being cited. Failure to do so constitutes plagiarism, and may result in failure of the course. Two occurrences of plagiarism may result in dismissal from the Seminary. Students unfamiliar with issues related to academic honesty can find help from the staff in the Academic Support Center. For the Seminary policy, see the Policy for Academic Honesty in the Student Handbook.

Accessibility and Accommodation:

Students requiring accommodations for a documented physical or learning disability should be in contact with the Director of the Academic Support Center (bherrintonhodge@lpts.edu) during the first two weeks of a semester (or before the semester begins) and should speak with the instructor as soon as possible to arrange appropriate adjustments. Students with environmental or other sensitivities that may affect their learning are also encouraged to speak with the instructor.
Inclusive Language:
In accordance with seminary policy, students are to use inclusive language in class discussions and in written and oral communication by using language representative of the whole human community in respect to gender, sexual orientation, ethnicity, age, and physical and intellectual capacities. Direct quotations from theological texts and translations of the Bible do not have to be altered to conform to this policy. In your own writing, however, when referring to God, you are encouraged to use a variety of images and metaphors, reflecting the richness of the Bible’s images for God. For more information, see http://www.lpts.edu/academics/academic-resources/academic-support-center/online-writing-lab/avoiding-gender-bias.

Policy on late work:
All written assignments are due, unless indicated otherwise, by 11:59 pm on the date given in the syllabus. Students who encounter unusual obstacles to getting an assignment in may ask for an extension of the due date. They should contact the instructor to request an extension before the work comes due. They may speak to the instructor directly, but they are required to communicate by email so as to provide a record of the request. Extensions are granted solely at the discretion of the instructor. Assignments submitted late, when no extension has been granted, will be penalized in the grading by one letter grade increment for every day (a B+ paper becomes a B if one day late, a B- if two days, a C+ if three days, etc.). Assignments submitted more than ten days after the due date will not be accepted.

Use of electronic devices in class:
Do not send or read text messages during class. Cell phones should be turned off. In the event that you have a legitimate need to be accessible during class, you may ask the instructor for an exception to this rule. Laptops should not be used if you cannot trust yourself to restrict your use to note-taking and referring to the assigned primary source readings for the day. You may not access the Internet during class time unless specifically for purposes directly relevant to the course. Any misuse of electronic devices during class time, including checking of email or social networking sites will negatively affect the course grade.

Attendance Policy:
According to the Seminary catalog, students are expected to attend class meetings regularly. In case of illness or emergency, students are asked to notify the instructor of their planned absence from class, either prior to the session or within 24 hours of the class session. Six or more absences (1/4 of the course) may result in a low or failing grade in the course.

Contacting the instructor:
While students are always welcome to speak to the instructor at any time about questions or issues that arise, the most reliable and efficient means of setting up an opportunity to meet and talk over important matters is through email. Students are strongly encouraged to contact the professor when they feel they need clarification on topics and questions that arise in the class, or when they are confronting significant challenges in their learning.

Calendar of Topics and Assignments:
A note on the calendar: What is given here is a very rough estimate of dates for the topics we will be taking up. It is aspirational rather than a mandatory schedule. The class will not be bound by this schedule, as we will seek to give each topic its due, in relation to the needs of teaching and learning that arise in the classroom.
